JFP was involved in all the aspects of The Village development located in Brisbane's southern suburbs. JFP consulted on the multi-stage residential project from Concept to Completion.

The project included a number of complex components which had to be co-ordinated. The Urban Design and Planning for The Village displayed an understanding of what could be achieved on the site while respecting the Doolandella Local Plan. Significant engineering works, such as signalised intersection on an arterial road and external services connections, were a feature of the project. The result was a well presented residential estate with a central parkland and a themed streetscape which supported the Client's marketing efforts.

The Village is an example of JFP's ability to provide a full range of consulting services on multi-stage residential developments from Concept to Completion.
